COAL CENTER PEOPLE BRING SUIT AGAINST INSURANCE CO.

Samuel K. Yeutsky and Hannah E. Killins, partners doing business as Yeutsy and Killins, at Coal Center, have entered an action to recover $1,200 with interest on an insurance policy issued by the Lebanon Mutual Insurance company, of Lebanon.

The policy was taken out on July 10, 1907, and was to run one year. It covered building, stock and fixtures. On January 1, 1908, in the conflagration at Coal Center, the plaintiffs premises and goods were destroyed by fire. The company was promptly notified of the loss and a certificate of a magistrate was also annexed to the notice that he had examined the circumstances and believed the insured had sustained a loss of not less than $1,500. Although the full period of 60 days has elapsed the defendant company has not reimbursed the plaintiff's for the loss sustained.

Judge McIlvaine yesterday handed down an adjudication dismissing the exceptions to a former adjudication in which the law was declared inoperative for the Waynesburg and Washington railroad and directing that a final decree in accordance with the former adjudication be prepared at once. The adjudication of the court filed yesterday makes some slight changes, ir ot amendments to the first adjudication, but they have no bearing on the result to be accomplished.

PROF. GAYMAN IS IN DEMAND

Prof. Daniel Gayman, one of the best known and oldest instructors in the county is, much in demand by the school boards in this and other counties. A short time ago Prof. Gayman was elected to a position as instructor in the Columbus, O., high school. At the meeting of the board of directors for the borough of Bentleyville Monday evening he was elected principal of the high school at that place at a salary of $90 per month. On the same evening he was elected principal of the East Bethlehem high school and Union school at a salary of $100 per month. Prof. Gayman was candidate for the county superintendancy at the last election.

FLATTERING REPORT OF NEWCOMER

Reports sent to Washington by Maj. Henry W. Newcomer, United States engineer, showing the tonnage of the local rivers for the past year, regardless of the financial condition, are flattering. The report shows the tonnage to have been 14,395,816 tons, against the tonnage of the previous year, which was 12,927,975. Of the total 10,821,907 tons was coal showing an increase of more than 1,000,000 ton.

Rivermen are anticipating a July rise, because the June rise in the river was but a minature one. In case a shipping stage comes more than 10,000,000 bushels of coal will go out if the rise lasts long enough for the steamers to tie up and move out. They can move out on the crest and get to deep water before it subsides.

Lock 4 Defeats Wireton.

By heavy hitting Lock Four defeated the Wireton team Tuesday evening in a seven inning game, by the score 6-3. Capt. McKenna of the Wireton team made a nice showing at third.

CHARLEROI LOSES GAME

Humphries And Cannon Both Pitch Well Throughout Game.

Connellsville took the third game of the series from Charleroi yesterday, after the Cherubs had lowered the colors of the Cokers the first two contests. The game was stubbornly fought by both teams and it took twelve innings to gain a decision. At that time a triple by Francis and a single by Tiffany, brought in the winning run.

The opposing pitchers Humphries and Cannon, teammates of the Charleroi club, P. O. M. league last year, both pitched good ball. Humphries allowed but eight hits striking out four men. The support accorded him was magnificient, not an error being made by Charleroi. The Cherubs were able to glean from Cannon's delivery nine safeties, while he struck out seven men. Two errors were made behind him.

The Cokers scored in the fourth, when Roy Ellam hit to the score board for the round trip. In the next inning Tiffany got on, and finally succeeded in scoring. In the same inning Charleroi scored one. Humphries singled and went the rest of the circuit when Nally tripled. The score was tied in the ninth inning by the Cherubs when Urben walked; Humphries sacrificed placing Urben on second, and Nally hit to the infield, being thrown out on first, but sending the advance man to third. Urben scored when Capt. Cosgrove sent down a slow one to second and beat it out. Both sides went out in order in the tenth and eleventh but in Connellsville's half of the twelfth, "Chip" Francis connected for three bases and scored the winning run, when Tiffany hit a Texas leaguer back on third. Capt Cosgrove hurt his ankle in the ninth and was unable to play the game out.

PROCLAMATION FOR FOURTH

Burgess Hott Desires a Safe And Sane, Pleasurable Holiday.

Burgess J. J. Hott today issues his proclamation concerning the use of Fireworks on the Fourth. It is as follows:

"Notice to public. Any person selling or using the following named explosives on July 4th will be arrested and punished according to law. All fireworks and firecrackers containing pirid acid or picrates, all explosive canes using chlorate of potash or other explosive ammunition, all blank cartridges, all blank cartridge pistols, all pelets or tablets composed of chlorate of potash or other high explosive compound."

J. J. Hott, Burgess.

The desire of all the citizens of Charleroi is for a safe and sane as well as pleasurable holiday. On the Fourth, as has been stated before there will be no celebration here, but the management of Eldora park is making special arrangements for that day. There will be fireworks there in the evening.

LAST ADDS OF MISSING WORD CONTEST TODAY

Today the last of the adds for the Missing Word contest which the Mail has been conducting for the past several week's will be published, and the successful one or ones who find the word in this week's issue, providing they are well enough to the top of the list will be the prize winner or winners. At present there are but two at the top. If both of these find the word which is omitted in one of the adds today, the prize will be divided between them. But whoever is successful this last time will have to study much more than they have before, for the word is positively the hardest of any yet, and one that will tax to the utmost the minds of those who try to solve the enigma. The winner will be announced in next Thursday evening's paper so watch for it.

The correct word last week was found by nine persons. It was "known," between the words you've and in, of Berryman's add.

BIG RECEPTION IS ATTENDED BY MANY FROM CHARLEROI

Tener Day at Uniontown was celebrated by a large number of Elks from Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, who gathered yesterday at the Fayette County metropolis to do honor to the Charleroi man who is the biggest of the herd.

The trip to Uniontown was made by Mr. Tener and party in automobile. Other Charleroi B P. O. E. men went by train. They were received by a number of Uniontown men in automobiles, and taken to Cycle Park where the Uniontown-Fairmont baseball games wa witnessed.

After the contest the automobile party, including the Grand officers and several others enjoyed a lunch at the Stone House on the National Pike, and returned to Uniontown about 8 o'clock. About an hour later Mr. Tener was ushered into the dining room of the club rooms in the West End theatre building, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared.

Judge R. E. Umbel acted as toast master and did it excellently. Wit and humorous tales flew thick and fast. Addresses were made by Mr. Tener, E. H. Reppert, Harry Beeson, Joseph M. Curley, Samuel Todd, John Jenkins, S. B. Harrison, of Fairmont, C. A. Bentley, District Attorney Davis W. Henderson, G. W. Hamm, P. A. Shanor and W. A. McHugh, Sr.

After the arrival of the party at the ball game in the afternoon a general discussion arose as to what team they should pull for. It was at last decided but not unanimously that Uniontown should be the lucky team.

The trip to the mountain and return was made in good time and Mr. Tener greatly enjoyed the scenery and surroundings. In Mr. Tener's party were J. K. Tener, J. J. Hott, A. D. Spencer, Joseph M. Curley and Edward Hamm, of Chelsea, Mass., P. A. Shanor, J. E. Masters, John Jenkins, W. H. Coles and W. A. Hagan.

ORDINANCE FOR SPITTING MEANS CLEANER STREETS

The ordinance which was recently posted around town regarding the spitting on sidewalks has been productive of much good as can easily be seen by the improved condition in cleanliness of the streets. So far only two arrests have been made for the offense, one of which was last night. It is the earnest desire of every good citizen of the town to have the streets in as cleanly and neat condition as any of the surrounding towns, and if possible be a model city in that respect. It seems that before the existence of an ordinance making spitting on the sidewalks an offense, was known it was done through either ignorance or thoughtlessness. Much good to the public health will be the result of the recent enforcement of the ordinance.

SUIT FOR $5,000 AGAINST WHITELAW

Belle Vernon, Pa., July 2.—An action to recover damages to the amount of $5,000 has been entered by David L. Zundel, president of the Zundel Coal company, against Robert S. Whitelaw, who formerly had charge of the company's mines here. It is alleged in the statement that Whitelaw, who was operating the No. 1 mine of the Zundel Coal company, at Belle Vernon, through neglect of the mining laws, caused a fire in the mine on February 23, 1907, preventing its operation and causing a loss to the owners. The suit has occasioned considerable surprise, as Whitelaw was always considered a careful and competent official.

Putting Out Directory.

The Charleroi Telephone Company will within the next four or five days deliver a new directory to their many subscribers in this section. This was very recently completed and has a list of subscribers to date not only of Charleroi, but of the connecting lines, Roscoe, California, Maple Creek and Home Mutual. The directory which is neatly gotten up is the work of the California Sentinel Job rooms.

Dr. H. H. Carothers is transacting business in Pittsburg today.

18,000 CARS OF DEBRIS TAKEN FROM DARR

West Newton, July 2.—Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Jacobs Creek, where over three hundred men met their death in an explosion last December, will probably resume operations next week for the first time since the catastrophe. During these nearly seven months there has been no cessation of work in the ill-fated mine, but it has all been cleaned up.

According to Superintendent William Kelvington a total of 18,000 cars of debris hads been removed from the workings, which did not contain a pound of coal other than had been blasted out by the terrific force of the explosion. Great holes were blown in sides and roof, looking as if a cannon had been used. So great was the force of the explosion that several bodies were found strewn along for a distance of several hundred feet. All that was left to tell they had been human beings were shreds of flesh and bits of clothing.

The mine is about three miles deep, and was wrecked almost from one end to the other. When in operation the pit will employ nearly five hundred men. Darr being one of the largest and most productive mines the Pittsburg Coal company has.

Gousi.

Mary the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gousi, died this morning. The funeral was held this afternoon from the residence. Interment was in the Charleroi cemetery.

Meeting Tonight.

The regular monthly meeting of the Charleroi Merchant's Association will be held at the Association Rooms, Kirk and Clark Bldg., Thursday evening, July 2, 1908, at 8:30 o'clock. Matters of importance will be taken up.

A most enjoyable picnic was held yesterday in Shannon's Grove by the Gleaner class of the First Christian Sunday school. The fine weather was well taken advantage, of the picnickers spending the day in various passtimes. All relished the lunches which were complete in every respect.

Merchant's Meeting.

Charleroi Council No. 14 T. B. H. will meet in regular session tonight. All members are requested to be present.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 7:31, rises 4:29; 2 p. m., earth at aphelion, farthest from sun; moon at apogee, farthest from earth.

Why The Difference?

There were two cases, one in Washington county and the other over in Allegheny county that concretely illustrate one of the claims of the opponents of the writ of injunction that it is only used with severity when organized labor is concerned.

In Allegheny county the school directors wilfully disobeyed an injunction in the selection or rejection of plans for a high school building. They were cited for contempt of court, found guilty, fined $100 but have appealed. This latter action is curious in view of the fact that where the contempt was committed by a striker an appeal is invariably denied, the courts stating there was no appeal from its finding except for a pardon from the President or Governor.

In this county the Court issued a rule ordering the Pennsylvania railroad officials to do a certain thing. This happened some time ago. This week the officials were adjudged guilty of contempt of Court and "sentenced" to obey the rule in sixty days. What became of the "speed" that the proponents of the injunction claim makes the writ a prime necessity?

Compare this latter case with that of Harwick strikers. Judge Kennedy sent the Harwick strikers to jail with railroad celerity. In both cases it was alleged that property was in peril but why the difference in treatment?

Orators prate and polemics scribble that the courts are sacred and their acts must be respected. Respect is an involuntary act: so is contempt. You cannot compel the former even with a battery of cannon unless your acts involuntarily inspire it and the latter you cannot burn out at the stake. In this Pennsylvania case the contempt was openly and defiantly performed. It is a 100 to 1 shot that they will not obey the "sentence."

Little Banana Peel.

The Altoona Tribune had a timely article upon the danger of throwing banana peelings on the pavement. "Bob" Burdette when editor of the Burlington Hawkeye made the banana peel tell its own story of the danger of stepping on it, as follows:

Like a bar of the beaten gold
gleam in the summer's sun.
I'm little I know.
But think I can throw
The man that'll weigh ton.
I send out no challenges bold,
I blow me no vaunting horn:
But foolish is he
Who treadeth on me.
He'll wish he never was born.

Like a flower of the field, vain man
Goes forth at the break of day,
But when shall feel.
My grip on his heel.
Like the stubble he fadeth away,
I toss him high up in the air.
His heels where his head ought to be
With a down coming crash,
He maketh his mash—
I know he's clear gone upon me.

I'm despised by the man who buys me
I'm modest, I'm gentle, I'm meek
Though my talents are few.
Yet the work that I do
Has oft made the cellar doors creak
I'm a blood-red republican born.
A nihilist fearless and free.
Though the heads wear a crown
I'll pull their pride down,
If they place their feet upon me.

A Cheap Steal.

The peripatetic libeller who furnishes the "stories" for the Dynasty proves to be the cheapest kind of a literary pirate. The Chicago Daily Socialist has been running an illustrated life story entitled "The Kid" for a week or so. In yesterday's Observer Lemon had a mangled and clumsy plagiarism of it. Substitute "Packingtown" for "Canonsburg," and the torrid heat of the pavements for the coal dust and you the original, and well made, story of the Socialist about the woes of "The Kid" as written by Cartoonist Savage, and palmed off as original by Lemon. Mr. Savage's story in the Socialist has some point to it, but the pinchbeck imitation that Lemon constructed is a sample of the dull impudence and fat wit that is so characteristic of those who slander for money.

Doubtless Lemon will take the "Song of the Shirt," and mangle it into a Drug Store Anthem.

Remember.

Remember, that if there are any insanitary mining towns or if there is a public nuisance in any of them or if the coal companies are disobeying the laws in any way, the Drug Store Dynasty is in a position to compel an abatement of the nusiances and an obedience to law and has been for a long term of years. It will surprise people who know something of the habits of the Russians to learn that even one closet was necessary for thirty families when the wash house was handy.

The Drug Store Dynasty reasons in this way: We are politically down and out. We have nothing to lose and everything to gain by stirring up bitter strife between employe and employer and if we can get up a big coal strike, then we can pretend to be the "true friends of the miners" and they will forget we called them bums and boozers. Of course we knew all of those things for years, and had the power to remedy them, but then we were too busy holding office and like Gallio, "cared for none of those things."

Could Jack Cade beat that?

Who He Is.

It is customary for disgruntled and partisan papers to attempt to convey the idea that Senator Penrose is a low-browed, ignorant, pot-house politician. He is a Harvard graduate and an honor man in his class and ranks high as an authority on jurisprudence and has written several legal text books. Very different picture than that drawn by the Dynasty?

Where Are We?

Several daily papers contained the accounts of an attempt to drive the negro population from a near-by town. Well, is this Washington county, Pa., or is it Yell county, Mississippi? An answer to that is needed.

The law partnership formerly existing between R. W. Irwin, Jas. A. Wiley and A. T. Morgan has been dissolved by mutual consent, A. T. Morgan retiring. All business of the partnership in process of settlement will be closed by Mr. Irwin and Mr. Wiley who have formed a partnership under the firm name of Irwin and Wiley.

His Idea of the English

The following illustrates Louis Philippe's idea of England and the English. He one day asked Hugo if he had ever been in England and on receiving a negative reply continued:

"Well, when you do go—for you will go—you will see how strange it is. It resembles France in nothing. Over there are order, arrangement, symmetry, cleanliness, well mowed lawns and profound silence on the streets. The passersby are as serious and as mute as specters. When, being French and alive, you speak in the street these specters look back at you and murmur with an inexpressible mixture of gravity and disdain, 'French people!' When I was in London I was walking arm in arm with my wife and sister.' We were conversing in a not too loud tone of voice, for we are well bred persons, you know, yet all the passersby, bourgeois and men of the people, turned to gaze at us, and we could hear them growling behind us: 'French people! French people!'"—"Memoirs of Victor Hugo."

Rossini and the Drum.

When Rossini's "Gazza Ladra" was performed for the first time the drum in the orchestra not only excited much comment, but caused the enemies of the composer, whom they denounced as a "foolish inventor of unmusical novelties," to threaten Rossini with bodily violence. One young man, a pupil of Rolla's, gained admission to the composer's presence and declared that art had been so violently outraged by the invention that he must kill the offender. He drew a weapon, but consented to listen to argument. He had been a soldier, and when the composer asked him why there should not be a drum where there are soldiers he sheathed his knife. "Promise me, though," he said, "that you will put no drums in your future music!" Rossini promised, but forgot.

The Retort Courteous.

The young man apologized profusely. "I'm very sorry—I didn't know I was—I am in a great hurry."

"That's all right, son," said the senator. "But let me give you a piece of advice about going through doors like these. Always go through on the right side and turn to the right. Then if you meet anybody coming through and bump into him you needn't apologize. He'll be a durned fool, and it won't be necessary. Good morning."—Saturday Evening Post.

HERE AND THERE

Everything looks favorable to the early beginning of an overhead bridge on the B. and O. road at the Dunn avenue crossing, Washington, and an undergrade roadway to the park.

The school board of Peters township met at Bower Hill and William Quitl of Venetia and William Faucett of McMurray were elected to fill the vacancies made by the resignation of Robert Townsend and Calvin McMurray.

As a straight line is the shortest ditsance between two points, so is advertising the shortest cut to business success.

The Tempest Brick Works, at Gallatin, has received an order for 76,000 pieces of refractory material, which will be shipped to an Ohio steel firm.

While H. H. Grace, freight agent for the Pennsylvania lines in Washington was watching a ball game on the golf grounds a foul tip caught him in the eye and for a time it was feared he would lose the sight, and also that he sustained a broken nose.

James Murphy, of Donora, who has been employed in the American steel and wire works since they were built, has resigned his position in the nail department and will go to the Rankin plant of the same company.

Gangs of workmen, under guard, are uncovering nearly every foot of ground on the farm of S. D. Martin, in Morris township, searching for the supposed fortune of the late Jerry D. Lindley, who owned the property at the time of his death in 1904.

Tuesday afternoon a moving containing the household goods of an Elizabeth family was hurled with the wagon, driver and horses over a steep embankment near the Domestic Coal company works.

J. F. Haney is again in hoc for forgery. This time he passed a bad check at the First National bank for $75, drawn by George Cooper on the National Bank of Fayette.

The Canonsburg Potter's plant will close down this week for the usual midsummer shutdown. The clay shop will close down within a day or two, and the other departments a little later.

As the result of a fall of slate in the mines of the Pittsburg Coal company at Wick Haven, John Surick, aged 30 years, and a foreigner, met with an injury which resulted in the loss of part of his right foot.

Judge J. F. Taylor yesterday handed down an opinion refusing the motion for a new trial in the case of Charles Sheafsky and Elizbeth Shefsy against the borough of Donora.

There were 99 marriage licenses issued by Clerk of Courts D. L. Williams during the month of June, two less than for the corresponding month of 1907.

Clark Peterman, arrested in connection with the Belle Vernon raids, was before the court this morning and was allowed to go without sentence being suspended for imposed upon him, but the case is to stand open and he will be subject to sentence in case he should again get into trouble.

In the settlement of disputes the Allegheny county courts have announced that they will discourage arbitrament by the knife. They consider it a barbarous weapon of offense.

The Cherry Pickers are mostly playing to doctors' attendance this season.

Rev. James Hamilton, formerly pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of Carmichaels, Green county, has removed his household goods to Washington where he will reside. Mr. Hamilton has been pastor of the Carmichaels church for a number of years, but recently resigned owing to ill health, and will rest from the active duties of a minister for a year or two. He chose Washington as a location, owing to its excellent educational advantages.

Wonder if "Strike Tuh" McGeary will be with us today. President Gronninger seems to think that unsophisticated gentleman is in better hands with the Cherubs than any other club.

Lack of inside ball seems to be the cause of the Cherubs losing of late. They have as good if not a better bunch of players than any club in the league and the team as a whole is hitting above them all, yet only lost games result. It was not this way at the beginning of the season, and should be remedied now.

Per Popularity.

When Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, John K. Tener, of Charleroi and soon of Washington, (D. C.), gallops into Uniontown today he will get the fraternal high sign and the merry mit. John is deserving of both. Not only is he the biggest Elk in the whole forest, but one of the most genial and companionable of men. Some years ago, and long before the spit ball was discovered, he used to heave the spheroid over the pan with unerring accuracy. Now he is a banker and a man of means, and in Elk circles quite the biggest thing in the world. He is a standing advertisement for Charleroi.

Tener has a way of doing things. Whether on the diamond, in the counting room or in the arena of politics he generally lands a winner. We know how he does some things, for he is a man of brains as well as brawn. But when he gets here we want to ask him one thing—how did he do it? Do what? How the devil did he put the potato bug on Ernie Acheson?—Uniontown Morning Herald of Wednesday.

The Volunteer Firemen of Monessen have just completed arrangements with the Reese-Walters "Perfect Shows" for three days engagement. The show consists of an old time one ring circus with side show consisting of American and European novelties. There will be performances every afternoon at 2 o'clock and every evening at 8 p. m. Before each performance a thrilling free act will be given. The shows are to be given to aid the relief fund of the Firemen and same will be conducted under the personal direction of a selected committee. Price of admision 50c for adults 25c for children. The aggregation will be in Monessen July 6th, 7th and 8th.

TEXAS

The Panhandle of Texas offers the very best inducements of the entire United States for the man who wishes to locate on a good farm as well as for the investor.

This land is unusually fertile. It is nice and level, no stumps or underbrush to clear up, but ready to plow at once. On this land you can raise larger crops of every kind with less labor than on farm land in Pennsylvania or West Virginia.

There is an abundance of rainfall during the crop growing season; and they have the healthiest and most pleasant climate during the entire year of any place in the United States. Plenty of absolutely fresh water.

We are selling this land for $10 to $30 an acre, according to distance from railroad and towns. Good terms. You can buy as many acres as you want, and make as much or more than the cost of your land in the first year.

Send for our free illustrated booklet. You should investigate this proposition at once by going with us on our next excursion. Now is your chance before the land is all sold, as thousands of northern people have located there and the prices of land are sure to more than double in the near future. We will pay your expenses of making the trip if we have misrepresented the land

Making More Than a Living.

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

Wild Animals and Medicine.

A writer in the British Medical Journal thinks that an interesting essay might be written on the addition to medical remedies made by animals. It is said that it is to dogs we owe the knowledge of the fever abating properties of bark, while to the hippopotamus is attributed the use of bleeding. The story as told in Philemon Holland's translation of Pliny is as follows: "The riuer-Horse hath taught physitions one deuice in that part of their profession called Surgerie, for he finding himself ouer-grosse and fat by reason of his high feeding so cont. nually gets forth of the water to the shore, hauing spied afore where the reeds and rushes haue bin newly cut and where he seeth the sharpest cane and best pointed hee ets his body hard on to it to pricke a certaine veine in one of his legs, and thus by letting himself bloud maketh evacuation, whereby his body, otherwise inclining to diseases and maladies, is well eased of the superfluous humor, and hauing thus done hee stoppeth the orifice againe with mud and so stancheth the bloud and heeleth the wound."

Greatly Underestimated.

"Bobby," asked his Sunday school teacher, "do you know how many disciples there were?" The little boy promptly said that he did and answered, "Twelve." Then he went on, "And I know how many Pharisees there were too."

"Indeed!"

"Yes'm. There was just one less than there was disciples."

"Why, how do you know that? It is nowhere stated how many Pharisees there were."

"I thought everybody knew it," said Bobby. "The Bible says, 'Beware of the 'leven of the Pharisees,' doesn't it?" —Youth's Companion.

A ROMANCE OF STEEL

The Rise of a Great Industry and Enormous Fortunes.

KELLY AND THE AIR BLAST.

The Flash of Genius Which Provided the World With a New Metal—Robert Mashet's Device—Captain Bill Jones and Andrew Carnegie.

As late as the middle of the last century cheap steel was unknown. It was then sold at 25 cents a pound. The railroads were using iron rails which wore out in less than two years, and the total output of iron and steel in a year was less than is now made in four days.

Then came to William Kelly, a Pittsburg Irish-American, that flash of genius which provided the world with a new metal, something as strong as steel and as cheap as iron.

Kelly was an iron maker and needed charcoal. In time all the wood near his furnaces was burned, and the nearest available source of supply was seven miles distant. To cart his charcoal seven miles meant bankruptcy unless he could invent a way to save fuel. One day he was sitting in front of the "finery fire" when he suddenly sprang to his feet, with a shout, and rushed to the furnace. At one edge he saw a white hot spot in the yellow mass of molten metal. The iron at this spot was incandescent. It was almost gaseous. Yet there was no charcoal—nothing but the steady blast of air. Like a flash the idea leaped into his excited brain—there was no need of charcoal; air alone for fuel.

But people said he was crazy when Kelly asserted that pig iron could be changed into malleable iron by the air blast, for every iron maker believed in those days that cold air would chill hot iron. "Some crank will be trying to burn ice next," said one manufacturer, and Kelly, through lack of means, could not turn his idea into the success he deserved.

Then, seven years later, came Bessemer, who made the new process a commercial success by the invention of his celebrated "converter" and received $10,000,000, worldwide fame and a knighthood as his reward. Kelly received $500,000 and comparative oblivion, although his idea was the nucleus of the Bessemer process by which iron is purified from carbon by the direct introduction of oxygen, for when Bessemer applied for and obtained a United States patent for his "pneumatic process" Kelly claimed priority for his invention, and his claim was allowed by the patent office.

Another pioneer of the steel trade, Robert F. Mushet, a Scotsman, who hit upon a device for removing a difficulty that baffled Kelly and Bessemer, fared even worse than Kelly, for he lost his patent by failing to pay the necessary fees and in his later years was dependent upon a pension of $1,500 which he received annually from Bessemer.

The difficulty which Mushet removed was this:

"The air blast clears the molten metal of carbon and of all impurities, including sulphur and phosphorus. But a certain quantity of carbon is necessary to harden the metal into the required quality of steel. Instead of endeavoring to stop the process at exactly the right moment, Mushet asked, 'Why not first burn out all the carbon and then pour back the exact quantity that you need?' This was a simple device, but no one had thought of it before."

The man who took the invention of Kelly and Bessemer into his hands, developed it into one of the wonders of the world and made the Carnegie millions was Captain William R. Jones—Bill Jones, as he was known—who seemed to live with the sole desire of toppling over the idea that England owned the steel trade. He could have been a millionaire many times over, but he cared little for money. When he was offered a partnership he replied:

"No, Mr. Carnegie, I don't know anything about business, and I don't want to be bothered with it. I've got trouble enough here in these works. I'll tell you what you can do"—these were his exact words—"you can give me a thundering big salary."

"After this, captain," replied Carnegie, "you shall have the salary of the president of the United States—$25,000."

The famous scrap heap policy was originated by Jones. He did not believe in waiting until his machinery was worn out. The moment that an improvement was invented old machinery was dragged to the scrap heap and the latest devices put in its place. He made the shareholders gasp on several occasions by asking permission to smash up $500,000 worth of machinery that was as good as new, but outgrown. Jones died, as he had lived, in the midst of an industrial battle at the head of his men. He was killed in an accident in the company's works. "Carnegie, looking upon poor Jones as he lay in the hospital, sobbed like a child." —"The Romance of Steel," by Herbert N. Casson.

The Wind.

The senator pushed into the crowd that surrounded the automobile.

"What is the trouble here?" he inquired.

"Punctured tire," replied a man with a dinner pail. "Make a speech into it, will you, senator?"—New York Press.

Inquisitive people are the funnels of conversation. They do not take in anything for their own use, but merely to pass it to another.—Steele.

A NOISY CONVENTION.

One in Which Comanches and Panthers Were Outshrieked.

The noisiest, the jolliest, the most exciting and perhaps least logical campaign was that of 1840. William Henry Harrison, hero of an Indian victory at Tippecanoe, a plain old man who had lived, his opponents sneeringly said, in a log cabin decorated with coonskins and had drunk hard cider, was selected by Thurlow Weed as a better candidate than Henry Clay. The issues between Van Buren, the Democratic candidate, and Harrison were not clearly drawn, but the adventitious circumstances of Harrison's early life were skillfully utilized for theatrical effects. Processions miles long with log cabins, cider barrels and coonskin caps on poles stretched from state to state. Glee clubs were a feature of the campaign, and the Indian fighter was fairly sung into office.

In the convention of 1860 began the modern custom of cheering and counter cheering. The Seward contingent gave a parade the day of the convention. While they were marching Lincoln supporters filled the Wigwam. With the naming of the candidates began the cheering. Murat Halstead said that when Seward was nominated and seconded "the shouting was absolutely frantic, shrill and wild. Comanches or panthers never struck a higher note or gave screams with more infernal intensity Looking from the stage over the vast amphitheater, nothing was to be seen below but thousands of hats—a black, mighty swarm of hats flying with the velocity of hornets over a mass of human heads, most of the mouths of which were open."

But when Lincoln's nomination was seconded the west was heard from "I thought the Seward yell could not be surpassed," said Halstead, "but the Lincoln boys were clearly ahead and, feeling their victory as there was a lull in the storm, took deep breaths all around and gave a scream that was positively awful and accompanied it with stamping that made every plank and pillar in the building quiver."

On the third ballot Lincoln was nominated. The shouting was so deafening that the cannon which was discharged on the roof of the building could not be heard inside. — Chicago Record-Herald.

PERILOUS SLEEPWALKING.

The Tragedy on Which Bellini Wrote His Celebrated Opera.

Somnambulists can maintain their footing in the most perilous places so long as they remain in a state of somnambulism, but if suddenly awakened they instantly lose their self possession and balance.

On one occasion a young woman living in Dresden was seen at midnight walking on the edge of the roof of her house. Her family were immediately told of her plight, but were afraid to go near her. The neighbors gathered about the house and placed mattresses and blankets along the street in hopes that they might save her in case she fell.

She danced for over an hour on the slanting roof, apparently retaining her balance without difficulty, and every now and then she would advance to the edge and bow to the silent crowd standing many feet below her.

At last she climbed down on to the wide gutter which ran in front of the window through which she had come, with the evident intention of re-entering the house. The crowd watching her so intently drew a sigh of relief. But, unfortunately, her terrified relatives, thinking to assist her, had placed two lighted candles in the room near the window, and as she approached the light fell directly in her eyes.

Instantly the shock awakened her, and she swayed back and forth in her perilous position; then, with a frightful scream, she fell headlong to the ground. She was fatally hurt and died in a few hours. It was on this tragedy that Bellini wrote his celebrated opera "La Sonnambula."—Washington Post.

The Tragic Loco Weed.

The abominable Mexican plant known as the loco weed has the peculiar property of making irrational both men and beasts who partake of it. Horses and cattle out on the prairies after grazing upon it go crazy, and a "locoed" pony will perform all kinds of queer antics. It is said that if a man comes under its spell he never regains his senses, the insanity produced by it being incurable. It is said that the loss of mind of the ill fated Carlotta was no doubt due to the fact that some enemy drugged her with a preparation of loco, although history has it that she went insane by reason of her husband's execution.—Baltimore American.

A Gentle Husband.

Woman (to her husband, busily engaged writing)—My dear, correctly speaking, what is a dentist? Husband (crossly)—Derived from dent, French for teeth, a man who pulls teeth. (Husband settles down to writing again.) Wife—My dear, you said this morning that linguist was derived from the Latin lingua, a tongue. Husband (crossly)—Yes. Wife—Well, dear, is a linguist a man who pulls out tongues? Husband—No, madam, but I wish he did.—London Answers.

The Best Man.

"Why is it," asked the dear girl, "that the bridegroom's attendant is called the 'best man?'"

"I suppose it's because he is the best off," growled the fussy old bachelor.—Kansas City Newsbook.

Samuel K. Yeatsky and Hannah E. Killins, partners doing business as Yeatsky and Killins, at Coal Center, have entered an action to recover $1,200 with interest on an insurance policy issued by the Lebanon Mutual Insurance company, of Lebanon.

The policy was taken out on July 10, 1907, and was to run one year. It covered building, stock and fixtures. On January 1, 1908, in the conflagration at Coal Center, the plaintiffs premises and goods were destroyed by fire. The company was promptly notified of the loss and a certificate of a magistrate was also annexed to the notice that he had examined the circumstances and believed the insured had sustained a loss of not less than $1,500. Although the full period of 60 days has elapsed the defendant company has not reimbursed the plaintiff's for the loss sustained.

Judge McIlvaine yesterday handed down an adjudication dismissing the exceptions to a former adjudication in which the law was declared inoperative for the Waynesburg and Washington railroad and directing that a final decree in accordance with the former adjudication be prepared at once. The adjudication of the court filed yesterday makes some slight changes, in or amendments to the first adjudication, but they have no bearing on the result to be accomplished.

FLATTERING REPORT OF NEWCOMER

Reports sent to Washington by Maj. Henry W. Newcomer, United States engineer, showing the tonnage of the local rivers for the past year, regardless of the financial condition, are flattering. The report shows the tonnage to have been 14,395,816 tons, against the tonnage of the previous year, which was 12,927,975. Of the total 10,821,907 tons was coal showing an increase of more than 1,000,000 ton.

Rivermen are anticipating a July rise, because the June rise in the river was but a minature one. In case a shipping stage comes more than 10,000,000 bushels of coal will go out if the rise lasts long enough for the steamers to tie up and move out. They can move out on the crest and get to deep water before it subsides.

CHARLEROI LOSES GAME

Humphries And Cannon Both Pitch Well Throughout Game.

Connellsville took the third game of the series from Charleroi yesterday, after the Cherubs had lowered the colors of the Cokers the first two contests. The game was stubbornly fought by both teams and it took twelve innings to gain a decision. At that time a triple by Francis and a single by Tiffany brought in the winning run.

The opposing pitchers Humphries and Cannon, teammates of the Charleroi club, P. O. M. league last year, both pitched good ball. Humphries allowed but eight hits striking out four men. The support accorded him was magnificient, not an error being made by Charleroi. The Cherubs were able to glean from Cannon's delivery nine safeties while he struck out seven men. Two errors were made behind him.

The Cokers scored in the fourth, when Roy Ellam hit to the score board for the round trip. In the next inning Tiffany got on, and finally succeeded in scoring. In the same inning Charleroi scored one. Humphries singled and went the rest of the circuit when Nally tripled. The score was tied in the ninth inning by the Cherubs when Urben walked; Humphries sacrificed placing Urben on second, and Nally hit to the infield, being thrown out on first, but sending the advance man to third. Urben scored when Capt. Cosgrove sent down a slow one to second and beat it out. Both sides went out in order in the tenth and eleventh but in Connellsville's half of the twelfth, "Chip" Francis connected for three bases and scored the winning run, when Tiffany hit a Texas leaguer back on third. Capt Cosgrove hurt his ankle in the ninth and was unable to play the game out.

PROCLAMATION FOR FOURTH

Burgess J. J. Hott today issues his proclamation concerning the use of Fireworks on the Fourth. It is as follows:

"Notice to public. Any person selling or using the following named explosives on July 4th will be arrested and punished according to law. All fireworks and firecrackers containing pierid acid or picrates, all explosive canes using chlorate of potash or other explosive ammunition, all blank cartridges, all blank cartridge pistols, all pelets or tablets composed of chlorate of potash or other high explosive compound."

J. J. Hott, Burgess.

The desire of all the citizens of Charleroi is for a safe and sane as well as pleasurable holiday. On the Fourth, as has been stated before there will be no celebration here, but the management of Eldora park is making special arrangements for that day. There will be fireworks there in the evening.

LAST ADDS OF MISSING WORD CONTEST TODAY

Today the last of the adds for the Missing Word contest which the Mail has been conducting for the past several week's will be published, and the successful one or ones who find the word in this week's issue, providing they are well enough to the top of the list will be the prize winner or winners. At present there are but two at the top. If both of these find the word which is omitted in one of the adds today, the prize will be divided between them. But whoever is successful this last time will have to study much more than they have before, for the word is positively the hardest of any yet, and one that will tax to the utmost the minds of those who try to solve the enigma. The winner will be announced in next Thursday evening's paper so watch for it.

The correct word last week was found by nine persons. It was "known," between the words you've and in, of Berryman's add.

Tener Day at Uniontown was celebrated by a large number of Elks from Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, who gathered yesterday at the Fayette County metropolis to do honor to the Charleroi man who is the biggest of the herd.

The trip to Uniontown was made by Mr. Tener and party in automobile. Other Charleroi B. P. O. E. men went by train. They were received by a number of Uniontown men in automobiles, and taken to Eldora Park where the Uniontown-Fairmont baseball games wa witnessed.

After the contest the automobile party, including the Grand officers and several others enjoyed a lunch at the Stone House on the National Pike, and returned to Uniontown about 8 o'clock. About an hour later Mr. Tener was ushered into the dining room of the club rooms in the West End theatre building, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared.

Judge R. E. Umbel acted as toast master and did it excellently. Wit and humorous tales flew thick and fast. Addresses were made by Mr. Tener, E. H. Reppert, Harry Beeson, Joseph M. Curley, Samuel Todd, John Jenkins, S. B. Harrison, of Fairmont, C. A. Bentley, District Attorney Davis W. Henderson, G. W. Hamm, P. A. Shanor and W. A. McHugh, Sr.

After the arrival of the party at the ball game in the afternoon a general [illegible] they should pull for. It was at last decided but not unanimously that Uniontown should be the lucky team.

The trip to the mountain and return was made in good time and Mr. Tener greatly enjoyed the scenery and surroundings. In Mr. Tener's party were J. K. Tener, J. J. Hott, A. D. Spencer, Joseph M. Curley and Edward Hamm, of Chelsea, Mass., P. A. Shanor, J. E. Masters, John Jenkins, W. H. Coles and W. A. Hagan.

ORDINANCE FOR SPITTING MEANS CLEANER STREETS

The ordinance which was recently posted around town regarding the spitting on sidewalks has been productive of much good as can easily be seen by the improved condition in cleanliness of the streets. So far only two arrests have been made for the offense, one of which was last night. It is the earnest desire of every good citizen of the town to have the streets in as cleanly and neat condition as any of the surrounding towns, and if possible be a model city in that respect. It seems that before the existence of an ordinance making spitting on the sidewalks an offense, was known it was done through either ignorance or thoughtlessness. Much good to the public health will be the result of the recent enforcement of the ordinance.

SUIT FOR $5,000 AGAINST WHITELAW

Belle Vernon, Pa., July 2. An action to recover damages to the amount of $5,000 has been entered by David L. Zundel, president of the Zundel Coal company, against Robert S. Whitelaw, who formerly had charge of the company's mines here. It is alleged in the statement that Whitelaw, who was operating the No. 1 mine of the Zundel Coal company, at Belle Vernon, through neglect of the mining laws, caused a fire in the mine on February 23, 1907, preventing its operation and causing a loss to the owners. The suit has occasioned considerable surprise, as Whitelaw was always considered a careful and competent official.

Putting Out Directory.

The Charleroi Telephone Company will within the next four or five days deliver a new directory to their many subscribers in this section. This was very recently completed and has a list of subscribers to date not only of Charleroi, but of the connecting lines, Roscoe, California, Maple Creek and Home Mutual. The directory which is neatly gotten up is the work of the California Sentinel Job rooms.

18,000 CARS OF DEBRIS TAKEN FROM DARR

West Newton, July 2.—Darr mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Jacobs Creek, where over three hundred men met their death in an explosion last December, will probably resume operations next week for the first time since the catastrophe. During these nearly seven months there has been no cessation of work in the ill-fated mine, but it has all been cleaned up.

According to Superintendent William Kelvington a total of 18,000 cars of debris hads been removed from the workings, which did not contain a pound of coal other than had been blasted out by the terrific force of the explosion. Great holes were blown in sides and roof, looking as if a cannon had been used. So great was the force of the explosion that several bodies were found strewn along for a distance of several hundred feet. All that was left to tell they had been human beings were shreds of flesh and bits of clothing.

The mine is about three miles deep, and was wrecked almost from one end to the other. When in operation the pit will employ nearly five hundred men. Darr being one of the largest and most productive mines the Pittsburg Coal company has.

Gonsi.

Mary the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gonsi, died this morning. The funeral was held this afternoon from the residence. Interment was in the Charleroi cemetery.

Meeting Tonight.

The regular monthly meeting of the Charleroi Merchant's Association will be held at the Association Rooms, Kirk and Clark Bldg., Thursday evening, July 2, 1908, at 8:30 o'clock. Matters of importance will be taken up.

A most enjoyable picnic was held yesterday in Shannon's Grove by the Gleaner class of the First Christian Sunday school. The fine weather was well taken advantage, of the picnickers spending the day in various passtimes. All relished the lunches which were complete in every respect.

Merchant's Meeting.

Charleroi Council No. 14 T. B. H. will meet in regular session tonight. All members are requested to be present.

Why The Difference?

There were two cases one in Washington county and the other over in Allegheny county that completely illustrate one of the claims of the opponents of the writ of injunction that it is only used with severity when organized labor is concerned.

In Allegheny county the school directors wilfully disobeyed an injunction in the selection or rejection of plans for a high school building. They were cited for contempt of court, found guilty, fined $100 but have appealed. This latter action is curious in view of the fact that where the contempt was committed by a striker an appeal is invariably denied the courts stating there was no appeal from its finding except for a pardon from the President or Governor.

In this county the Court issued a rule ordering the Pennsylvania railroad officials to do a certain thing. This happened some time ago. This week the officials were adjudged guilty of contempt of Court and "sentenced" to obey the rule in sixty days. What became of the "speed" that the proponents of the injunction claim makes the writ a prime necessity?

Compare this latter case with that of Harwick strikers. Judge Kennedy sent the Harwick strikers to jail with railroad celerity. In both cases it was alleged that property was in peril but why the difference in treatment?

Orators prate and polemics scribble that the courts are sacred and their acts must be respected. Respect is an involuntary act: so is contempt. You cannot compel the former even with a battery of cannon unless your acts involuntarily inspire it and the latter you cannot burn out at the stake. In this Pennsylvania case the contempt was openly and defiantly performed. It is a 100 to 1 shot that they will not obey the "sentence."

Little Banana Peel.

The Altoona Tribune had a timely article upon the danger of throwing banana peelings on the pavement. "Bob" Burdette when editor of the Burlington Hawkeye made the banana peel tell its own story of the danger of stepping on it, as follows:

Like a bar of the beaten gold
Gleams in the summer's sun.
I'm little I know,
But think I can throw
The man that'll weigh ton.
I send out no challenges bold,
I blow me no vaunting horn;
But foolish is he
Who treadeth on me.
He'll wish he never was born.

Goes forth at the break of day,
But when shall feel.
My grip on his heel.
Like the stubble he fadeth away,
I toss him high up in the air.
His heels where his head ought to be
With a down coming crash,
He maketh his mash—
I know he's clear gone upon me.

I'm despised by the man who buys me
I'm modest, I'm gentle, I'm meek
Though my talents are few,
Yet the work that I do
Has oft made the cellar doors creak
I'm a blood red republican born,
A nihilist fearless and free.
Though the heads wear a crown
I'll pull their pride down,
If they place their feet upon me.

The peripatetic libeller who furnishes the cheapest kind of a literary pirate. The Chicago Daily Socialist has been running an illustrated life story entitled The Kid for a week or so. In yesterday's Observer Lemon had a mangled and clumsy plagiarism of it. Substitute Packingtown for "Canal Street" and you have a beat of the pavements for the coal dust and you the original, and well made, story of the Socialist about the woes of "The Kid" as written by Cartoonist Savage and palmed off as original by Lemon. Mr. Savage's story in the Socialist has some point to it but the pinchbeck imitation that Lemon constructed is a sample of the dull impudence and fatuity that is so characteristic of those who slander for money.

Doubtless Lemon will take the Song of the Shirt, and mangle it into a Drug Store Anthem.

Remember.

Remember that if there are any insanitary mining towns or if there is a public nuisance in any of them or if the coal companies are disobeying the laws in any way, the Drug Store Dynasty is in a position to compel an abatement of the nusiances and an obedience to law and has been for a long term of years. It will surprise people who know something of the habits of the Russians to learn that even one closet was necessary for thirty families when the wash house was handy.

The Drug Store Dynasty reasons in this way. We are politically down and out. We have nothing to lose and everything to gain by stirring up bitter strife between employe and employer and if we can get up a big coal strike, then we can pretend to be the "true friends of the miners" and they will forget we called them huns and bozers. Of course we knew all of those things for years, and had the power to remedy them but then we were too busy holding office and like Gallio, cared for none of those things."

Could Jack Cade beat that?

Who He Is.

It is customary for disgruntled and partisan papers to attempt to convey the idea that Senator Penrose is a low-browed, ignorant, pot-house politician. He is a Harvard graduate and an honor man in his class and ranks high as an authority on jurisprudence and has written several legal text books. Very different picture than that drawn by the Dynasty?

Where Are We?

Several daily papers contained the accounts of an attempt to drive the negro population from a near-by town. Well, is this Washington county, Pa., or is it Yell county, Mississippi? An answer to that is needed.

The law partnership formerly existing between R. W. Irwin, Jas. A. Wiley and A. T. Morgan has been dissolved by mutual consent, A. T. Morgan retiring. All business of the partnership in process of settlement will be closed by Mr. Irwin and Mr. Wiley who have formed a partnership [illegible] Wiley.

His Idea of the Empire.

The following [illegible] Philippe's idea of Empire and the English. He one day asked Reign if he had ever been in England and on receiving a negative reply continued:

"Well, when you do go—for you will go—you will see how strange it is. It resembles France in nothing. Over there are order, arrangement, symmetry, cleanliness, well mowed lawns and profound silence on the streets. The passersby are as serious and as mute as specters. When, being French and alive, you speak in the street these specters look back at you and murmur with an inexpressible mixture of gaiety and disdain, 'French people!' When I was in London I was walking arm in arm with my wife and sister. We were conversing in a not too loud tone of voice, for we are well bred persons, you know, yet all the passersby, bourgeois and men of the people, turned to gaze at us, and we could hear them growling behind us, 'French people! French people!'"—"Memoirs of Victor Hugo."

Rossini and the Drum.

When Rossini's "Gazza Ladra" was performed for the first time the drum in the orchestra not only excited much comment, but caused the enemies of the composer, whom they denounced as a "foolish inventor of unmusical novelties," to threaten Rossini with bodily violence. One young man, a pupil of Rolla's, gained admission to the composer's presence and declared that art had been so violently outraged by the invention that he must kill the offender. He drew a weapon, but consented to listen to argument. He had been a soldier, and when the composer asked him why there should not be a drum where there are soldiers unsheathed his knife. "Promise me, though," he said, "that you will put no drums in your future music." Rossini promised, but forgot.

The Retort Courteous.

The young man apologized profusely. "I'm very sorry—I didn't know I was—I am in a great hurry."

"That's all right son," said the senator. "But let me give you a piece of advice about going through doors like these. Always go through on the right side and turn to the right. Then if you meet anybody coming through and bump into him you needn't apologize. He'll be a durned fool, and it won't be necessary. Good morning."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Tempest Brick Works, at Gallatin, has received an order for 76,000 pieces of refractory material, which will be shipped to an Ohio steel firm.

While H. H. Grace, freight agent for the Pennsylvania lines in Washington was watching a ball game on the golf grounds a foul tip caught him in the eye and for a time it was feared he would lose the sight, and also that he sustained a broken nose.

James Murphy, of Donora, who has been employed in the American steel and wire works since they were built, has resigned his position in the nail department and will go to the Rankin plant of the same company.

Gangs of workmen, under guard, are uncovering nearly every foot of ground on the farm of S. D. Martin, in Morris township, searching for the supposed fortune of the late Jerry D. Lindley, who owned the property at the time of his death in 1904.

Tuesday afternoon a moving containing the household goods of an Elizabeth family was hurled with the wagon, driver and horses over a steep embankment near the Domestic Coal company works.

J. F. Haney is again in hoc for forgery. This time he passed a bad check at the First National bank for $75, drawn by George Cooper on the National Bank of Fayette.

The Canonsburg Potter's plant will close down this week for the usual midsummer shutdown. The clay shop will close down within a day or two, and the other departments a little later.

As the result of a fall of slate in the mines of the Pittsburg Coal company at Wick Haven, John Surles, aged 50 years, and a foreigner, met with an injury which resulted in the loss of part of his right foot.

Judge J. F. Taylor yesterday handed down an opinion refusing the motion for a new trial in the case of Charles Sheafsky and Elizbeth Shefsy against the borough of Donora.

Rev. James Hamilton, formerly pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of Carmichaels, Green county, has removed his household goods to Washington where he will reside. Mr. Hamilton has been pastor of the Carmichaels church for a number of years, but recently resigned owing to ill health, and will rest from the active duties of a minister for a year or two. He chose Washington as a location, owing to its excellent educational advantages.

CHARLEROI LOSES GAME

Wonder if "Strike 'Em" McGeary will be with us today. President Groninger seems to think that unsophisticated gentleman is in better hands with the Cherubs than any other club.

Lack of inside ball seems to be the cause of the Cherubs losing of late. They have as good if not a better bunch of players than any club in the league and the team as a whole is hitting above them all, yet only lost games result. It was not this way at the beginning of the season, and should be remedied now.

Per Popularity.

When Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, John K. Tener, of Charleroi and soon of Washington, (D. C.,) gallops into Uniontown today he will get the fraternal high sign and the merry mit. John is deserving of both. Not only is he the biggest Elk in the whole forest, but one of the most genial and companionable of men. Some years ago, and long before the spit ball was discovered, he used to heave the spheroid over the pan with unerring accuracy. Now he is a banker and a man of means, and in Elk circles quite the biggest thing in the world. He is a standing advertisement for Charleroi.

Tener has a way of doing things. Whether on the diamond, in the counting room or in the arena of politics he generally lands a winner. We know how he does some things, for he is a man of brains as well as brawn. But when he gets here we want to ask him one thing—how did he do it? Do what? How the devil did he put the potato bug on Ernie Acheson?—Uniontown Morning Herald of Wednesday.

The Volunteer Firemen of Monessen have just completed arrangements with the Reass-Walters "Perfect Shows" for three days engagement. The show consists of an old time one ring circus with side show consisting of American and European novelties. There will be performances every afternoon at 2 o'clock and every evening at 8 p. m. Before each performance a thrilling free act will be given. The shows are to be given to aid the relief fund of the Firemen and same will be conducted under the personal direction of a selected committee. Price of admission 10c for adults 5c for children. The aggregation will be in Monessen July 6th, 7th and 8th.

The Panhandle of Texas offers the very best investments of the entire United States at the most reasonable terms. Don't buy a farm [illegible] this land is [illegible] up in small tracts to actual settlers only. This land is [illegible] you can raise larger crops of every kind with less labor than on high land in Pennsylvania or West Virginia.

There is an abundance of rainfall during the crop growing season, and they have the healthiest and most pleasant climate during the summer months of any place in the United States. Plenty of absolutely fresh water.

We are selling this land for $10 to $20 per acre according to distance from railroad and towns. Good terms. You can buy as many acres as you want, and make as much or more than the cost of your land in the first year.

Send for our free illustrated booklet. You should investigate this proposition at once as we are going with an excursion. Next Tuesday your chance before the land is all sold, as thousands of northern people have located there and the prices of land are going to more than double in the near future. We will pay your expenses of making the trip if we have misrepresented the land.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the man who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a good interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

Wild Animals and Medicine.

A writer in the British Medical Journal thinks that an interesting essay might be written on the addition to medical remedies made by animals. It is said that it is to dogs we owe the knowledge of the fever abating properties of bark, while to the hippopotamus is attributed the use of bleeding. The story as told in Philemon Holland's translation of Pliny is as follows: "The river-Horse hath taught physitions one deuice in that part of their profession called Surgerie, for he finding himself ouer-grosse and fat by reason of his high feeding so continually gets forth of the water to the shore, hauing spied afore where the reeds and rushes haue bin newly cut, and where he seeth the sharpest cane and best pointed bee ets his body hard on to it to pricke a certaine veine in one of his legs, and thus by letting himself bloud maketh evacuation, whereby his body, otherwise inclining to diseases and maladies, is well eased of the superfluous humor, and hauing thus done bee stoppeth the orifice againe with mud and so stancheth the bloud and healeth the wound."

Greatly Underestimated.

"Bobby," asked his Sunday school teacher, "do you know how many disciples there were?" The little boy promptly said that he did and answered, "Twelve." Then he went on, "And I know how many Pharisees there were too."

"Indeed!"

"Yes'm. There was just one less than there was disciples."

"Why, how do you know that? It is nowhere stated how many Pharisees there were."

"I thought everybody knew it," said Bobby. "The Bible says, 'Beware of the 'leven of the Pharisees,' doesn't it?"—Youth's Companion.

A ROMANCE OF STEEL.

The Rise of a Great Industry and Enormous Fortunes.

KELLY AND THE AIR BLAST.

As late as the middle of the last century cheap steel was unknown. It was then sold at 25 cents a pound. The railroads were using iron rails which wore out in less than two years, and the total output of iron and steel in a year was less than is now made in four days.

Then came to William Kelly, a Pittsburg Irish-American, that flash of genius which provided the world with a new metal, something as strong as steel and as cheap as iron.

Kelly was an iron maker and needed charcoal. In time all the wood near his furnaces was burned, and the nearest [illegible] seven miles distant. To cart his charcoal seven miles meant bankruptcy unless he could invent a way to save fuel. One day he was sitting in front of the "finery fire" when he suddenly sprang to his feet, with a shout, and rushed to the furnace. At one edge he saw a white hot spot in the yellow mass of molten metal. The iron at this spot was incandescent. It was almost gaseous. Yet there was no charcoal—nothing but the steady blast of air. Like a flash the idea leaped into his excited brain—there was no need of charcoal; air alone for fuel.

But people said he was crazy when Kelly asserted that pig iron could be changed into malleable iron by the air blast, for every iron maker believed in those days that cold air would chill hot iron. "Some crank will be trying to burn ice next," said one manufacturer, and Kelly, through lack of means, could not turn his idea into the success he deserved.

Then, seven years later, came Bessemer, who made the new process a commercial success by the invention of his celebrated "converter" and received $10,000,000, worldwide fame and a knighthood as his reward. Kelly received $500,000 and comparative oblivion, although his idea was the nucleus of the Bessemer process by which iron is purified from carbon by the direct introduction of oxygen, for when Bessemer applied for and obtained a United States patent for his "pneumatic process" Kelly claimed priority for his invention, and his claim was allowed by the patent office.

Another pioneer of the steel trade, Robert F. Mushet, a Scotsman, who hit upon a device for removing a difficulty that baffled Kelly and Bessemer, fared even worse than Kelly, for he lost his patent by failing to pay the necessary fees and in his later years was dependent upon a pension of $1,500 which he received annually from Bessemer.

The difficulty which Munset removed was this:

"The air blast clears the molten metal of carbon and of all impurities, including sulphur and phosphorus. But a certain quantity of carbon is necessary to harden the metal into the required quality of steel. Instead of endeavoring to stop the process at exactly the right moment, Mushet asked, 'Why not first burn out all the carbon and then pour back the exact quantity that you need?' This was a simple device, but no one had thought of it before."

The man who took the invention of Kelly and Bessemer into his hands, developed it into one of the wonders of the world and made the Carnegie millions was Captain William R. Jones—Bill Jones, as he was known—who seemed to live with the sole desire of toppling over the idea that England owned the steel trade. He could have been a millionaire many times over, but he cared little for money. When he was offered a partnership he replied:

"No, Mr. Carnegie, I don't know anything about business, and I don't want to be bothered with it. I've got trouble enough here in these works. I'll tell you what you can do"—these were his exact words—"you can give me a thundering big salary."

"After this, captain," replied Carnegie, "you shall have the salary of the president of the United States—$25,000."

The famous scrap heap policy was originated by Jones. He did not believe in waiting until his machinery was worn out. The moment that an improvement was invented old machinery was dragged to the scrap heap and the latest devices put in its place. He made the shareholders gasp on several occasions by asking permission to smash up $500,000 worth of machinery that was as good as new, but outgrown. Jones died, as he had lived, in the midst of an industrial battle at the head of his men. He was killed in an accident in the company's works. "Carnegie, looking upon poor Jones as he lay in the hospital, sobbed like a child."—"The Romance of Steel," by Herbert N. Casson.

The Wind.

The senator pushed into the crowd that surrounded the automobile.

"What is the trouble here?" he inquired.

"Punctured tire," replied a man with a dinner pail. "Make a speech into it, will you, senator?"—New York Press.

Inquisitive people are the funnels of conversation. They do not take in anything for their own use, but merely to pass it to another.—Steele.

A NOISY CONVENTION.

One in Which Comanches and Panthers Were Outshrieked.

The noisiest, the jolliest, the most exciting and perhaps least logical campaign was that of 1840. William Henry Harrison, hero of an Indian victory at Tippecanoe, a plain old man who had lived, his opponents sneeringly said, in a log cabin decorated with coonskins and had drunk hard cider, was selected by Thurlow Weed as a better candidate than Henry Clay. The issues between Van Buren, the Democratic candidate, and Harrison were not clearly drawn, but the adventitious circumstances of Harrison's early life were skillfully utilized for theatrical effects. Processions miles long with log cabins, cider barrels and coonskin caps on poles stretched from state to state. Glee clubs were a feature of the campaign, and the Indian fighter was fairly sung into office.

In the convention of 1860 began the modern custom of cheering and counter cheering. The Seward contingent gave a parade the day of the convention. While they were marching Lincoln supporters filled the Wigwam. With the naming of the candidates began the cheering. Murat Halstead said that when Seward was nominated and seconded [illegible] absolutely frantic, shrill and wild. Comanches or panthers never struck a higher note or gave screams with more infernal intensity. Looking from the stage over the vast amphitheater, nothing was to be seen below but thousands of hats—a black, mighty swarm of hats flying with the velocity of horses over a mass of human heads, most of the mouths of which were open."

But when Lincoln's nomination was seconded the west was heard from. "I thought the Seward yell could not be surpassed," said Halstead, "but the Lincoln boys were clearly ahead and, feeling their victory as there was a lull in the storm, took deep breaths all around and gave a scream that was positively awful and accompanied it with stamping that made every plank and pillar in the building quiver."

On the third ballot Lincoln was nominated. The shouting was so deafening that the cannon which was discharged on the roof of the building could not be heard inside. — Chicago Record-Herald.

PERILOUS SLEEPWALKING.

Somnambulists can maintain their footing in the most perilous places so long as they remain in a state of somnambulism, but if suddenly awakened they instantly lose their self possession and balance.

On one occasion a young woman living in Brussels was seen at midnight walking on the edge of the roof of her house. Her family were immediately told of her plight, but were afraid to go near her. The neighbors gathered about the house and placed mattresses [illegible] that they might save her in case she fell.

She danced for over an hour on the slanting roof, apparently retaining her balance without difficulty, and every now and then she would advance to the edge and bow to the silent crowd standing many feet below her.

At last she climbed down on to the wide gutter which ran in front of the window through which she had come, with the evident intention of re-entering the house. The crowd watching her so intently drew a sigh of relief. But, unfortunately, her terrified relatives, thinking to assist her, had placed two lighted candles in the room near the window, and as she approached the light fell directly in her eyes.

Instantly the shock awakened her, and she swayed back and forth in her perilous position; then, with a frightful scream, she fell headlong to the ground. She was fatally hurt and died in a few hours. It was on this tragedy that Bellini wrote his celebrated opera "La Sonnambula."—Washington Post.

The Tragic Loco Weed.

The abominable Mexican plant known as the loco weed has the peculiar property of making irrational both men and beasts who partake of it. Horses and cattle out on the prairies after grazing upon it go crazy, and a "locoed" pony will perform all kinds of queer antics. It is said that if a man comes under its spell he loses his reason, the insanity produced by it being incurable. It is said that the loss of mind of the ill fated Carlotta was no doubt due to the fact that some enemy drugged her with a preparation of loco, although history has it that she went insane by reason of her husband's execution.—Baltimore American.

A Gentle Husband.

Woman (to her husband, busily engaged writing)—My dear, correctly speaking, what is a dentist? Husband (crossly)—Derived from dent, French for teeth, a man who pulls teeth. (Husband settles down to writing again.) Wife—My dear, you said this morning that linguist was derived from the Latin lingua, a tongue. Husband (crossly)—Yes. Wife—Well, dear, is a linguist a man who pulls out tongues? Husband—No, madam, but I wish he did.—London Answers.

The Best Man.

"Why is it," asked the dear girl, "that the bridegroom's attendant is called the 'best man?'"

"I suppose it's because he is the best off," growled the fussy old bachelor.—Kansas City Newsbook.
